GREENVILLE, S.C.

The U.S. Army Forces Command has selected Lockheed Martin as an approved contractor for the Aviation Joint Administrative Management Support Services (AVJAMSS) contract. The contract is valued at approximately $400 million over 10 years.

AVJAMSS is an indefinite delivery, indefinite quantity contract to provide aviation maintenance and training services.

"We are proud to be able to offer continued aviation support to Forces Command," said David Mitchell, Vice President and General Manager of Contractor Logistics Support for Lockheed Martin Aircraft & Logistics Centers. "For more than 20 years, the men and women of our field support services have provided high-quality aviation maintenance and modifications for the U.S. Army."

Headquartered in Bethesda, Md., Lockheed Martin employs about 130,000 people worldwide and is principally engaged in the research, design, development, manufacture and integration of advanced technology systems, products and services. The corporation reported 2003 sales of $31.8 billion.
