

Lockheed Martin And Boeing Executives To Discuss Strategic Alliance

PRNewswire

Two Aviation Industry Leaders Collaborate to Promote Advancement of the Future U.S. Air Transportation System

WHO: Judy Marks, President, Lockheed Martin Transportation and Security Solutions
Kevin Brown, Boeing Phantom Works Vice President and General Manager of Advanced Air Traffic Management

WHAT: Lockheed Martin and Boeing have formed a strategic alliance to promote advancement of the future U.S. air transportation system.

The leaders of these two companies will be hosting a teleconference for members of the media to offer more perspective on the alliance and how industry can support the forecast two- to three-fold increase in air traffic by 2025.

WHEN: Monday, January 22, 2007
1 p.m. EST

INFO: DIAL IN INFO: (888) 422-7124, participant code: 447741

Headquartered in Bethesda, Md., Lockheed Martin employs more than 140,000 people worldwide and is principally engaged in the research, design, development, manufacture, integration and sustainment of advanced technology systems, products and services.

Headquartered in Chicago, Ill., Boeing employs more than 155,000 people in 67 countries and serves customers in 145 countries. Its product lines and services include commercial jetliners, military aircraft, rotorcraft, electronic and defense systems, missiles, satellites, launch vehicles, and advanced information and communication systems.

For additional company information, visit our Web sites:

<http://www.lockheedmartin.com/>
<http://www.boeing.com/>

CONTACT: Anna DiPaola of Lockheed Martin, +1-301-640-3336, mobile: +1-240-535-3862, anna.dipaola@lmco.com; or Daryl Stephenson of The Boeing Company, +1-314-232-8203, mobile:
+1-314-497-9036, daryl.l.stephenson@boeing.com.

PRNewswire -- Jan. 22
First Call Analyst:
FCMN Contact:

SOURCE: Lockheed Martin; The Boeing Company

Web site: <http://www.lockheedmartin.com/>
<http://www.boeing.com/>