ROCKVILLE, Md.

Lockheed Martin was selected by the U. S. Department of Justice (DOJ) as one of three companies awarded the opportunity to compete for future tasks orders under the Mega 3 Automated Litigation Support contract vehicle.

Mega 3 is a multiple award, indefinite-delivery-indefinite-quantity (IDIQ) contract to provide litigation support services to seven DOJ litigation divisions and many other federal agencies engaged in litigation supported and sponsored by DOJ. The contract has a one-year base and five one-year options, with an overall program ceiling of $950 million.

Under Mega 3, Lockheed Martin could provide an array of litigation support services, including document acquisition and processing, database utilization, electronic data acquisition and production-related support-including electronic data discovery and forensics, pre-trial and trial support, specialized professional services, subject matter expertise and contract and program management. Lockheed Martin will operate Mega 3 primarily in the Washington, DC metro area, but also at locations across the United States with teammates SourceCorp, Valora and Pitney Bowes. For more than a decade, Lockheed Martin is one of the federal government's leading IT providers.

"Through strong subject matter expertise and streamlined workflow processes, Lockheed Martin is ready to continue partnering with DOJ's litigating divisions and other federal agencies to support the successful litigation of cases that protect the interests of the nation and the public," said Joseph Cipriano, President of Lockheed Martin Business Process Solutions.

Headquartered in Bethesda, Md., Lockheed Martin employs about 140,000 people worldwide and is principally engaged in the research, design, development, manufacture, integration and sustainment of advanced technology systems, products and services. The corporation reported 2006 sales of $39.6 billion.
