Lockheed Martin Earns 2019 ENERGY STAR® Partner Of The Year Award

WASHINGTON, April 11, 2019 /PRNewswire/ -- Lockheed Martin (NYSE: LMT) was recognized as a 2019 ENERGY STAR® Partner of the Year by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) and the U.S. Department of Energy. The annual award recognizes organizations with an exemplary commitment and dedication to leadership in energy efficiency and the ENERGY STAR program.

"Lockheed Martin's commitment to energy efficiency is an integral part of our operational performance," said Lockheed Martin Vice President for Environment, Safety and Health Carol B. Cala. "We're always looking for innovative new ways to reduce our environmental impact whether through facility upgrades, technology adoption or process improvements."

The ENERGY STAR Partner of the Year award recognizes ENERGY STAR partner businesses and organizations in good standing that demonstrate superior leadership, innovation and commitment to environmental protection through energy efficiency and ENERGY STAR.

"I applaud the 2019 ENERGY STAR award winners," said EPA Assistant Administrator for Air and Radiation Bill Wehrum. "Their innovation and leadership enhance America's economic competitiveness. Reducing costly energy waste improves air quality and public health while protecting the environment."
