SAO PAULO, BRAZIL – Dec. 16, 2025 – The Brazilian Army took delivery of its first UH-60M Black Hawk helicopter, initiating a 12-helicopter fleet upgrade that strengthens Brazil's multi-mission airlift and humanitarian-assistance capabilities. The Black Hawk helicopter is a versatile aircraft ready to support the Brazil Army's missions, including troop transport, medical evacuation, search and rescue, and disaster response.

"The arrival of the first UH-60M Black Hawk helicopter in Brazil is a proud moment in our ongoing partnership," said Rich Benton, Sikorsky vice president and general manager. "These aircraft will play a critical role in supporting the Brazilian Army's operations, and we are committed to delivering exceptional logistical support to ensure their continued success."

The Brazilian Army's confidence in the Black Hawk helicopter is a testament to the aircraft's proven track record and the strong partnership between the Brazilian Army and Sikorsky, which spans 28 years. Since the acquisition of the first Black Hawks in 1997, Sikorsky has provided robust logistical support, ensuring the Brazilian Army's aviation capabilities remain highly effective. The Brazilian Air Force also operates a fleet of UH-60L Black Hawk helicopters, enhancing interoperability within its own forces.

Operated by 36 nations and validated through more than 15 million flight hours, the Black Hawk is the premier multi-role helicopter for missions worldwide.
